THIS MAP BASED ON OBSERVATIONS TAKEN AT 8 P. M., LAST NIGHT.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, April 24, 1912. The weather in the middle Atlantic Coast Thursday night has passed to the Canadian Maritime Provinces, and rain Thursday night in the middle Atlantic and New England States and the lower lake region was followed Friday by generally fair weather in those districts, but continued in Northern New England. Another barometric depression now covers the Rocky Mountain region and the Southwestern States, and it is causing a general increase in cloudiness throughout the middle West. In the middle of the middle Mississippi Valley, the southern plains States and the Rocky Mountains and plateau regions.

Temperatures now are below the normal in practically all parts of the country except the Northwestern States, and Thursday night frosts occurred in the upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys and Tennessee.

The indications are that the Western disturbance will advance east, its centre reaching the Mississippi Valley during Sunday. It will be accompanied by general precipitation, and will overcloud the Atlantic States Saturday night or Sunday.

No important temperature changes are indicated for any part of the country during the next forty-eight hours.

That the weather in the Mississippi River from the mouth of the Ohio River to the vicinity of Helena, Ark., will continue to fall, and that between Helena and the mouth of the river will break in the next few days, will not change materially during the next few days. Below Vicksburg the river will rise in the night and the middle of May. There will be a slight fall at Natchez, Miss., and a rise at Memphis, Tenn., and below the mouth of the Red River for a few days.

The winds along the New England Coast from Cape Cod to the south Atlantic Coast, light to moderate, variable; east Gulf from the Gulf of Mexico to the south Atlantic Coast, light to moderate; west Gulf from the Gulf of Mexico to the south Atlantic Coast, moderate east and southeast; Lake Michigan, moderate east and south; Lake Superior, moderate east and south.

Steamers departing Saturday for European ports will encounter light winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

Forecast for Special Localities.—For Northern New England, fair to-day and probably Sunday; not much change in temperature; moderate west wind.

For Southern New England, fair to-day; Sunday, increasing cloudiness, probably showers; moderate west wind, becoming variable.

For Eastern New York, fair to-day; Sunday, probably showers; moderate, variable winds.

For Western New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, increasing cloudiness and somewhat warmer to-day, followed by showers at night; Sunday, showers, moderate, variable winds.

For Western Virginia, increasing cloudiness to-day, probably followed by showers by night; Sunday, showers, moderate, variable winds.

For Western Pennsylvania and Western New York, increasing cloudiness to-day, probably followed by showers at night; Sunday, showers, moderate, variable winds.

Official observations of United States weather bureau taken at 8 p. m. yesterday:

City.	Temperature.	Weather.
Albany	50	Cloudy
Albany	48	Fair
Boston	46	Cloudy
Buffalo	24	Clear
Chicago	42	Cloudy
New Orleans	70	Cloudy
San Francisco	52	Cloudy
Washington	50	Cloudy

Local Official Record.—The following official record from the Weather Bureau shows the changes in the temperature for the last twenty-four hours in comparison with the corresponding date of last year:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 a. m.	52	43	6 p. m.	53	49
6 a. m.	49	44	9 p. m.	51	44
9 a. m.	48	42	12 m.	50	44
12 m.	50	40	12 m.	50	40

The highest temperature yesterday, 52 degrees (at 2 p. m.); lowest 43 (at 3 a. m.); average, 48; average for corresponding date last year, 54; average for the last twenty-three years, 49.

Forecast.—Fair, to-day; Sunday, probably showers; moderate, variable winds.

U. S. S. Corporation's Increases To Be Met by Other Concerns.
The United States Steel Corporation has issued notices of an advance in the price structural steel and steel plates from $11.26 to $12.53 a 100 pounds, which is equivalent to $1 a ton. The higher price has been effective to-day. Steel bars as previously announced, were advanced to a basis of $120 a 100 pounds. These increases will be met by the independent companies.

New business is being booked by the Steel Corporation at the rate of about 40,000 tons a day, comparing with about 50,000 a day earlier in the month. The corporation is operating at nearly 93 per cent capacity, which means that it is practically full, as a small percentage must always be allowed for as representing idle capacity due to breakdowns, repairs and other causes.

BRIEF FROM DEATH HOUSE

MacFarland, Jersey Slayer, Prepares His Own Appeal.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]
Trenton, N. J., April 19.—For the first time in the history of New Jersey a slayer in the death house at Trenton has been allowed to appear in his own behalf for presentation to the Court of Errors and Appeals in an endeavor to get a new trial. To-day Frank McDermitt and Chauncey H. Heasley, as counsel for Allison M. MacFarland, appeared before the court and filed with the court an elaborate brief prepared by MacFarland.

MacFarland was convicted of poisoning his wife in Newark. The case was carried up on a writ of error, and in addition to the writ of error, a writ of habeas corpus was filed to-day. The prisoner goes into the case in detail and has an explanation for every point of error. He says that he was "a poor, downy, Bunny Letter," as MacFarland is an educated man, the brief is intelligently prepared. He says that he was "a poor, downy, Bunny Letter," as MacFarland is an educated man, the brief is intelligently prepared. He says that he was "a poor, downy, Bunny Letter," as MacFarland is an educated man, the brief is intelligently prepared.

Another case of prominence in which a brief was filed to-day was that of Albert T. Patrick, in New York.
